2. Base Currency

The Base Currency shall be the US Dollar.

3. Investment Objective

The investment objective of the Fund is to seek to provide long-term capital appreciation with lower than average volatility by investing in a concentrated portfolio of global companies with superior risk-reward profiles.

4. Investment Policy

The Fund seeks to achieve its investment objective by investing typically in a concentrated portfolio of long positions of global equity and equity-related securities which are listed, traded or dealt on a Regulated Market.

The equity and equity-related securities in which the Fund may invest include common stock, preferred stock and securities which are convertible into common or preferred stock. Convertible securities may include bonds, notes and debentures which may be converted or exchanged at a stated or determinable exchange ratio. The Fund may also invest in securities issued by listed real estate investment trusts ('REITs') master limited partnerships (which are structured as equity securities traded or listed on an exchange such as the New York Stock Exchange and distributions from which will be rolled into the NAV of the Fund) and income trusts, depository receipts (both American and Global), rights issues, IPO's and second offerings, partly paid shares, Regulation S securities (i.e. securities offered outside the US without registration under the US Securities Act of 1933) and Rule 144A securities (securities issued pursuant to Rule 144A, promulgated under the US Securities Act of 1933, which are issued with an undertaking to register with the SEC). The Fund may invest up to 10% of net assets in collective investment schemes including equity-related exchange-traded funds. The Fund may also invest in equity-linked structured notes, equity-linked certificates and equity-linked securities such as participation notes that are listed or traded on Recognised Exchanges worldwide. Participation notes provide the Fund with the opportunity to gain access to specific equities in markets where owning the local shares might be less efficient than investing in the participation notes including emerging markets. Only structured notes which are unleveraged, "securitised" and capable of free sale and transfer to other investors and which are purchased through recognised regulated dealers are deemed to be "transferable securities" which are traded on Recognised Exchanges. The Fund may also invest in warrants. The Fund has wide latitude to invest across market capitalisations. The Fund will not employ a particular sectoral or geographical focus. However the Fund may invest up to 15% of net assets in securities of issuers that are economically tied to countries with developing, or "emerging market" economies ("emerging market securities").

Investments will be selected on the basis of a given company's ability to generate free cash-flow and allocate it intelligently to benefit shareholders. The Fund's investments will be concentrated in that, typically, the Fund will own the securities of between twenty and thirty-five issuers. The composition of the Fund's portfolio will seek to reflect three elements:

- thematic and sector views generated by the monthly Investment Policy Group of the Investment Manager (which comprises of senior portfolio managers within the Investment Manager);
- high conviction stock ideas held in other Epoch portfolio strategies without regard to any particular benchmark or its composition; and
- management of the aggregation risk and efficiency at the portfolio level.

The Investment Manager's investment philosophy is based on the belief that growth and applications of free cash flow represent the best predictor of long-term shareholder returns. As a result, the security selection process will be focused on free-cash-flow metrics and capital allocation as opposed to traditional accounting-based metrics such as price-to-book and price-to-earnings. The Investment Manager will seek companies with a consistent, straightforward ability to generate free cash flow and to allocate it effectively among internal reinvestment opportunities, acquisitions, dividends, share repurchases and the paying down of debt. An essential factor will be the evaluation of each company's management team to confirm their commitment to transparency and building shareholder value. The companies uncovered by this process typically have inherently less volatility due to their consistent ability to generate and grow cash flow.

The Investment Manager's strategies incorporate qualitative and quantitative analysis to identify potential investments, taking into consideration factors that can lead to growing cash flow. Stocks are then subject to rigorous fundamental research. The Investment Manager develops an investment thesis as it assesses the sources of the company's long-term value creation and management's ability to nurture it. The Investment Manager scrutinizes management's track record of allocating capital, looking for those with the discipline to use free cash flow to maximize return on investment, thereby creating shareholder value. Once a stock has been purchased, the Investment Manager continually revisits its thesis and will sell the stock if its price target is reached, its thesis changes or it sees another investment with a better risk-reward profile.

The Investment Manager will analyze risk as part of the portfolio construction process to monitor portfolio volatility in furtherance of the Fund's goals. The Investment Manager has a dedicated quantitative research and risk management team to support and enhance the Investment Manager's fundamental research and portfolio construction processes.

The Fund may also hold and maintain ancillary liquid assets, including cash and cash equivalents (such as certificates of deposit and cash funds), money market instruments (such as treasury bills) in situations where the Investment Manager deems an appropriate investment opportunity is not available for example, during periods of market uncertainty where such investment is deemed to be important for defensive purposes or at times when the Investment Manager determines that opportunities and/or market conditions for equity investing are unattractive.

The Fund may use techniques or instruments such as repurchase, reverse repurchase and stock lending agreements for efficient portfolio management purposes only, subject to the conditions and limits set out by the Central Bank. The Fund may but does not currently intend to utilise financial derivative instruments (such as forwards, futures and options) and the Investment Manager will not utilise financial derivatives until such time as a revised risk management process has been prepared, submitted to and cleared by the Central Bank. Where the Fund decides to use derivatives it may do so to hedge its exposure to non-US currencies. Currency hedging activities may be implemented using spot and forward foreign exchange contracts and currency futures and options. The Fund may hold both USD denominated securities and non-USD denominated securities. Currency hedging activities will be implemented using spot and forward foreign exchange contracts and currency futures and options. Where the Fund decides to use derivatives the Fund it will use the commitment approach methodology to measure, monitor and manage the "leverage" effect produced by the use of such derivatives. The Fund's global exposure must not exceed its total net asset value. Global exposure is calculated taking into account the current value of the underlying assets, the counterparty risk, future market movements and the time available to liquidate the positions. The commitment approach is calculated by converting the derivative position into the equivalent position in the underlying asset, based on the market value of the underlying asset or the market value of the contract, as described in the Risk Management Process. The Net Asset Value of the Fund is not likely to have a high volatility due to its investment policy or portfolio management techniques.

5. Profile of a Typical Investor

Investors in the Fund are expected to be an informed investor seeking capital appreciation through broad based global equity exposure, and who is willing to accept a medium degree of volatility and a medium to long term investment horizon.

6. Offer

Shares in the Fund which have not yet launched shall be offered until 1 November 2016 (the "Initial Offer Period") at the Initial Price and subject to acceptance of applications for Shares by the Company will be issued for the first time on the first Dealing Day after expiry of the Initial Offer Period. The Initial Offer Period may be shortened or extended by the Directors. The Central Bank will be notified in advance of any such extension if subscriptions for Shares have been received and otherwise on an annual basis. After closing of the Initial Offer Period Shares in the Fund will be issued at the Net Asset Value per Share.

Any requests for redemption received after the Dealing Deadline for a Dealing Day will be processed on the next Dealing Day. Redemption requests will only be processed and redemption proceeds paid where cleared funds and completed documents including documentation relating to money laundering prevention checks are in place from original subscriptions. No redemption payment will be made from an investor holding until the original subscription application form and all documentation required by or on behalf of the Company (including any documents in connection with anti-money laundering procedures) has been received from the investor and the anti-money laundering procedures have been completed.

In the event of a Shareholder requesting a redemption which would, if carried out, leave the Shareholder holding Shares having a Net Asset Value less than the Minimum Holding for a Share Class, the Company may, if it thinks fit, redeem the whole of the Shareholder's holding.

The redemption price per Share shall be the Net Asset Value per Share. It is not the current intention of the Directors to charge a redemption fee. Redemption payments will be made to the bank account detailed on the Application Form or as subsequently notified to the Administrator in writing. Redemption payments following processing of instruments will only be made to the account of record of a Shareholder.
